A Note From the Pastor

Dear St. Malachy Parishioners,

“With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you; I give thanks to the divine compassion, I have not been disappointed of my desire...”

Our patron Saint Malachy spoke these words on the night before his death, to Saint Bernard and the other Cistercian monks of the monastery in Clairvaux, where he had been staying when he suddenly fell ill. The first part of those words were a paraphrase of Luke 22:15 (our parish theme verse for last year, when we began the Eucharistic Revival). Our Lord had spoken those words on the night before His own death, with reference to celebrating that Passover, which would bring about the fulfillment of the Passover, through the Eucharist and the whole Paschal Mystery of His life, death and resurrection, which are contained within it.

However, Malachy did not speak those words on Holy Thursday, but in reference to a different feast. His words were in reference to the Lord granting his desire and prediction that he would pass with the monks at Clairvaux on the Feast of All Souls, “at that day in which so great benefits are bestowed by the living on the dead.” For indeed, Malachy understood that the Feast of All Souls is a day when the living throughout the whole universal church bestow great benefits on the dead by their prayers, he knew that he would be in need of those prayers and he saw in them, “no small hope laid up for me.” God granted Malachy both this unique desire and confidence that it would be fulfilled. What a blessing it is that All Souls Day falls forever during the Saint Malachy Novena, as we prepare to celebrate our Parish Feast Day, which we will celebrate next weekend with Mass and our parish breakfast on Sunday.

The convergence of the novena and feast of Saint Malachy with All Souls Day and All Saints Day is a fitting introduction to the month. November is devoted to prayers for those who have gone before us, honoring their memory and generally grappling with the reality of death. This is fitting for the final month of the Church Year.

“Death is an end, but it’s not the end,” in the words of Dr. Scott Hefelfinger, with the Augustine Institute. Those words can be found on the Eternal Rest series, found on FORMED. This will be our next parish study. It is a short four session study, which we will begin in November (see page 3 for details). This series is not limited in its scope. We all need to make sense of the reality of death, for it is an inevitable reality, which we all face and yet we are often uncomfortable thinking or speaking about. I strongly encourage everyone to consider either participating in the group study (always the best option) or watching it on your own (also well worthwhile). Please remember that this is one of the reasons we invested in FORMED and why many of our parish studies come from that same platform. If you are not able to participate in the group study, you can go through it on your own or with a group of family or friends. And it will cost you nothing, since the parish has already paid for it.

Let us ask Saint Malachy to pray for us in these final days of the Church Year, that we may keep our eyes fixed upon the purpose of our existence: communion with God and with one another, which reaches its perfection and completion only in eternal life.

In Christ through Mary,

A Joyful Word

November 2023

Kimberly Souba, Director of Religious Education

We Should Show Gratitude at All Times

Happy Autumn! It is hard to believe that the leaves are changing colors, the nights are growing cooler, and as we enter this month of celebrating Thanksgiving, there is much to be thankful for here at St. Malachy's.

In 2015 during the closing of the World Meeting of Families the Holy Father said, "Faith grows when it is lived and shaped by love. That is why our families, our homes, are true domestic churches. They are the right place for faith to become life, and life to grow in faith."

I am grateful for you and the faith foundation you have already given to your children. Our continued goal is to foster opportunities for them to grow closer in their relationship with Christ.

Gratitude is a virtue. It's something we strive to integrate into our lives, as well as cultivate in our children. Beyond the pursuit of moral excellence, gratitude is a value that can produce substantial pay off. When we are grateful, we can escape the comparison trap. Instead, our hearts become full as we recognize our own blessings.

For me, gratitude does not always come naturally, and so giving thanks has to be a very intentional practice on my part. When I walk into St. Malachy Church and School each morning, however, it truly isn't hard to feel grateful. I see joyful parishioners and parish/school staff, happy children, invested teachers, and programs that are flourishing. I am extremely grateful for this community of nurture and faith-filled believers who play such a vital role in creating this environment.

It truly is a joy for me to spend my time here. I'm blessed to do what I love and love what I do. And that is because of each person I encounter daily. What brings you gratitude? I encourage you to take some time personally and with your family to reflect on all that you are grateful for.

I pray that your family experiences an enrichment of faith in your lives and in your home this year, and may God abundantly bless you and your family as we prepare our hearts for the upcoming Advent and Christmas seasons.

Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary

The Church celebrates the feast of the Presentation of Mary in the Jerusalem Temple Nov. 21 even though it is not Sacred Scripture. However, we should not doubt the ancient tradition that Joachim and Anne consecrated their daughter, Mary, to God.

Children are gifts. A child is not a piece of property or an object a parent has a right to possess. When parents consecrate a child to God through baptism, they are expressing a willingness to return a gift to the Maker by giving Him what He already possesses, life itself and all who share in it.

Saints Anne and Joachim, in gratitude for the gift of life, you presented Mary in the Temple. Help all parents to see in you as a model of dependence on God's providence and may similar consecrations in today's world prepare saints for the Church of tomorrow. Amen.

“Jesus said, ‘Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these.’”

— Matthew 19:14
